THE BUCKET SHOP

The exceedingly good people of New York have made a law against the continued existence of "Buckett Shops." The "Bucket Shop," so called because there, it was said, one might speculate in grain in as small quantity as a bucketful, is simply a small copy of the large gambling establishment, called a grain, produce, or stock exchange. The legislatures of Illinois and some other states have made laws looking toward the same result. The reason the "Bucket Shop" is to be squelched is not at all because it invites people of small means to yielding 120 barrels a day. spend their meagre savings in gambling, but because it takes away a certain amount of "legitimate business" from the more "respectable" because richer exchanges. This is all (done ostensibly in the interest of good 'morals; but realy to keep up a monopoly of this peculiar kind of gambling. Yet none of the Legislatures which have passed these laws would, for a moment, dare to license a faro game, wherein the "outsider" has a much better chance of winning than when playing against the former and larger game. If the states which countenance such a condition are not rotten, there is no such thing as political corruption.

INGERSOL ON NAPOLEON.

What His Thoughts Were While Viewing the Tomb.

During a recent speech, Colonel R. G. Ingersol said: A little while ago I stood by the grave of old Napoleon-s magnificent tomb of gilt and gold, fit almost for a deity dead-and gazed upon the sarcophagus of rare and nameless marble, where rests at least the ashes of that restless man. I leaned over the balustrade and thought of the career of the greatest soldier of the modern world. I saw him walking on the banks of the in California. Seine contemplating suicide. I saw him at Toulon. I saw him putting down the mob in the streets of Pais. I saw him at the head of the army in Italy. I saw him crossing the bridge at Lodi with the tri-color in he hand. I saw him in Egypt in the shadows of the pyramids. I saw him conquer the Alps and mingle the eagles of France with the eagler of of the crags. I saw him at Marongo, at Ulm and at Austerlitz. I saw him in Russia when the infantry of the snow and the cavalry of the wild black scattored his region like winters withered leaves. I saw him at Leipsic in defeat and disaster-driven by a million blayonets back upon Paris-clutched like a wild beast-banished to Elba. I saw him escape and retake an empire by the force of his genius. I saw him on the frightful field of Waterloo, where Chance and Fate combined to wreck the fortunes of their former king. And I saw him at hind him, gazing out at the sad and sol.

I thought of the widows and orphans he had made-of the tears that had been shed for his glory, and of the only woman who ever loved him, pushed from his heart by the cold hand of ambition! And I said I would rather have been a French pessant and wore wooden shoes. would rather have lived in a but with a vine growing over the door, and the grapes growing purple in the amorous kisses of the autumn sun. A would rather have been that poor peasant, with my wife by my side knitting as the day upon my knees and their arms about me -I would rather have been that man, and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust, than to have been the imperial personation of force and murder known as Napoleon the Great.

The Kingston (A. T.) Shaft says: Wednesday, while passing by the Copper King Company, we saw a sign in a window of a neat little frame cottage. It was pathetic in the extreme, when one considers the loneliness of the miner, away out in the hills, deprived of the comforts of home and the joys of the fair sex. It simply read thus: "Wanted -A wife. Apply within; nobody rich dirt, worth 843 50 per acre. barred."

Nevada raises the best wheat in the world. James Sullivan sent some to the World's Fair at New Orleans that weighed 68 pounds to the bushel. The State is but in her infancy yet in an agricultural point of view. When she is a little older she will grow wheat that will weigh 90 pounds to the bushel .-

WANTS A FARM.

And is Drinking a Good Patch of Land Every Month.

Bob Burdette writes as follows: My homeless friend with the chromatic nose while you are stirring up the sugar in a ten cent glass of gin let me give you a fact to wash down with it. You say you have longed for years for the free independent life of a farmer, but have never been able to get money enough together to buy a farm. But this is just where you are mistaken. For several died out of the sky-with my children years you have been drinking an improved yard at the rate of 100 square feet per gulp. If you doubt this statemeut figure it out yourself. An acre of land contains 43 5000 square feet. Estimating for convenience the land at 843 50 per acre, you will see that it brings the land to just one mill per square foot, one cent for ten square feet. Now pour down the fiery dose and imagine you are swallowing a strawberry patch. Call in your five friends and gulp down that 500. foot garden. Get on a prolonged spree sometime and see how long a time it requires to swallow a pasture large enough to feed a cow. Put down that glass of gin, there's dirt in it-100 feet of good
